TEACHERS IMPACT ON STUDENTS

by:
Mary Joyce R. Taparan
Teacher II, Limay National High School - SHS

There are already different written theories about teachers changing the lives of their students. Endless numbers of great teacher stories that became a strong testament to the benefits of a strong relationship between teachers and pupils.

Teachers are considered one of the most influential role models for developing students, as they are responsible not just for instilling the knowledge learnt from books. And if one would want to be a great teacher, it is a must to connect with the students and reach them on multiple levels. Because the best teachers’ thoughts are occupied by their students’ well-being both inside and outside the classroom. By cultivating a strong teacher-student relationship, educators affect every aspect of their students’ lives.

Indeed, all teachers may agree that it is not easy to change a student’s life. Some teachers may do it easier but others may need to have an extra push to every student. Students vary. Some students may have problems with their personal lives and some may just have issues on the lesson itself. But whatever the students may need to help them excel, a life-changing teacher will be there for them.

There are different aspects of students’ lives that are directly affected by great teachers. And it varies as time goes by. Having said that, student-teacher relationship may affect and have some effects on students through teachers’ given education, inspiration and guidance.

IN EDUCATION
Learning can be fun because of the teachers’ induced stimulation and engagement in the lesson. Making a classroom, not just the physical concept, an exciting environment will play with the students’ fascination and imagination. It is important to remember that students learn best when they are both faced in challenging and interesting scenario.

SERVING INSPIRATION

Anybody may have an answer to the question, “Who is your most influential teacher?” A teacher may inspire a student in whatever he or she is doing. Be it during discussion, by the way he or she discusses the lesson up to the way he or she dresses.

Inspiring students is integral part of teacher-student learning as it ensures their success and allow them to reach their full potential. Students who are totally inspired by a teacher can do amazing things. An inspiration instilled by a teacher becomes a student’s motivation that he or she may remember even years after his or her graduation.

TEACHERS’ GUIDANCE

Schools are students’ second home, thus, teachers are considered students’ second parents. That is why it is essential for teachers to be trusted sources of advice for students. As students may have personal or academic issues, an educator should help students in weighing important life decisions.

Students often look to their teachers as mentors and teachers may definitely be asked for advise at some point of their teaching career.

Teachers are more than a test examiner, more than a person who writes on a blackboard, more than a document being submitted in the office and more than a person in a uniform. Because as teachers leave an impact to students’ lives, whatever they do stays inside the heart of the student and changes it forever.
References:
