One of the very essential trend that we have now in the educational field is the so-called Technical Assistance. This is such a very meaningful compound word that would surely contribute a lot to the productivity, progress and success of every member or individual in the educational community.

The power of Technical Assistance may help the school administrator to become an efficient and effective leader. Technical Assistance teaches the school head to perform the duties and responsibilities with competence and with qualities that are vital in making a good, better or even the best school leader. He or she will receive Technical Assistance from superiors and other significant people related to the job.

Technical Assistance is also applicable to teachers. The school principals, head teachers and master teachers may provide Technical Assistance to them in the way they execute the lesson and on the ways in performing their roles and tasks efficiently and effectively. The teachers need Technical Assistance in order to give quality education to students and to be attain the respect and admiration of others.

The non-teaching personnel in the school also need Technical Assistance. The people in the school offices and even the utility workers are entitled to Technical Assistance. With it these, human resources may be able to realize their job descriptions and be more functional and productive in the performance of their duties in the workplace.
The learners or students as well need Technical Assistance. Since they are in the periods of adjustment and learner, the teachers need to guide them well and assist them in their undertakings, endeavors and difficulties. Technical Assistance would serve as a tool in helping them to grow holistically as they face the challenges in the school.

Technical Assistance or TA is indeed playing an integral role in directing the paths of school administrators, teachers, students and other school personnel.

Let Technical Assistance guide and support everyone in doing their respective parts in the school community, to eliminate the weaknesses and to enhance the strengths!

With Technical Assistance success is always in the four corners of the school.
