The environment is important in many aspects of an individual. It affects the physical, emotional, and social aspect. In relation to social aspect, the environment plays an important role in everyday life of a worker. It allows the worker to be either more productive or maybe less productive. The environment may also build or destroy someone’s purpose in a specific scene. On this time when the world is facing the pandemic, the whole environment changed such as inside the market, alongside of the roads, parks, malls, and schools. These places are also considered as the workplaces of different people in the world. In relation to this, Education is one of the affected areas. It is a total challenge for the Department especially to the lower part of the organization such as the teachers to continue teaching their students and the environment plays an important role in this matter. Before, the teachers were teaching inside the classroom that is well lighted, has minimal noise, etc. But now in the middle of the pandemic they are teaching in front of the cameras of the laptops or cellphones to reach their students and to do their job. In relation to this, they are working inside their homes. This situation brought life to the word: “Work from Home” that is considered as a challenge because of different things that they encounter in teaching such as different uncontrollable noises of different members of the family, pets, vehicles, as well as the internet connection that largely contribute to the delivery of learning from the teacher to the students. But even the educators are facing this big challenge, they are able to manage the situation and can continue to do their oath.
