A teacher starts from being a novice or new. As a promising teacher, it is expected that someone be in the adjustment stage. Though trekking the transition stage of the teaching profession, the teacher should show the best in the job.

Showing your active side is very important in teaching. As a novice teacher should be active and should show to the world his or her abilities and talents. Involve yourself in worthwhile and productive activities with the pupils.

Though you are only new in the profession, you have to act as a role model. This is by showing a good example in terms of the way you speak and act. Be a model of hard work and good values for the pupils to imitate your outstanding deeds.

A novice teacher is expected to have a work goal. The goal is for the benefit of the learners. Seeing new teachers with serious goals is great. This marks their dedication and sincerity in work.

The aim for success may be possible to a novice teacher. To strive for success in the teaching field is good and it indicates that the teacher is competitive and achiever. This is a good influence to the pupils.

It is a good practice if the novice teachers learn from the best teachers. Imitating seasoned teachers is beneficial. The success of the novice teachers may originate from the wisdoms of the best teachers.
Successful teachers are the ones who were able to establish camaraderie among peers and other stakeholders. Creating goodwill with others is quite advantageous. The novice teachers should remember this concept.

The novice teachers have to love their pupils. They act as second parents and that is why they have to show compassion and sympathy. Be with them in times of difficulties is truly worthy.

As a novice teacher, you have to strive for excellence. This is attaining the finest quality in work and conforming to the best standards in education. Excellent pupils come from excellent teachers.

The novice teachers need to manifest good values. These values are showing the morality and standards of the society. The novice teacher has to uphold the core values of humanity.

Success in the profession on the part of the novice teacher is possible and may come into a reality.
