THE YOUTHS IN NEW GENERATION

by:

Marjorie M. Lingad

Young people are the foundation of future’s growth. They are individual who has the capacity to shape their world in a variety of ways by reflecting on their place of activity and the choices accessible to them at any given time in defining their priorities. It has been clearly emphasized that youth are not only the leaders of tomorrow, but the partners of today. Youth have some obligation towards the country. We need to learn from the past and live with ambition for a better future.

“The youth is the hope of the motherland.” This is just one of idioms that our Philippine national hero Dr. Jose Rizal once enunciated. This means that the future of our nation lies on the hands of the youth today. More so, the youth have the power to reshape the nation’s present appearance. It was the remarkable thought to many young people to observe and preserve his novel about the youths.

But there are some factors affecting these young people. Most influential is the use of different devices such as cyberspace, cellular phones and other social awareness bothers the parent which gives a way of young ages to follow the wrong doings. Understanding these social settings of adolescents should strive to enable parents and community residents to increase their abilities in upbringing young people. These conditions include deprive on economic protection for poor and middle-class families, the increase in the number of single-parent households, and the rise in the number of neighborhoods with intense poverty that at socially sporadic from middle-and working-class areas. Such trends place tremendous stresses on public and private organizations at a time when huge numbers of children are entering adolescence.
It is important to note however that while children may be the source of pride and joy of their parents, they may also be a cause of grief and shame for them. And having good children depends on how parents raise them, using as their guide and basis the will of God. “Fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, but bring them in the discipline and instruction of the Lord.” (Eph.6:4, Revised Standard Version).

Raising children in accordance with God’s will expected to have an attitude distinct from those of the young people in dealing with every subfigure of life. That’s why parents have a crucial role responsibility how to establish a good and strong foundation of a child that will help building their own life. The relationship between parents and children is essential in cultivating the growth of the youth following a smooth path thru a successful young people in the new generation.

References:
https://www.scribd.com>doc The Youth is the Hope of the Motherland
Pasugo God’s Message The Magazine of the Iglesia Ni Cristo (Church of Crist)
August 2016;Love an Discipline Parenting Essentials by Nicanor P. Tiosen