TRYING IS THE KEY

by:
Francisco De Guzman

It is quite a handful to become a teacher and still get the things and skills the organization asks, but all we need to do is to try, right? It is hard, but it is not impossible.

As teachers which are seen by the community people as reliable ones, one thing that we might always ask ourselves, is if we are giving the best to our clientele, which is the students. The students as our end-users must feel that we are doing the best we can to reach and teach them, especially nowadays that all the people in the world knew that face to face might be a thing in the future and a thing in the past.

As teachers, the online and technological skills must be equipped with the determination and willingness to become part of the system, engulf the idea to enhance teaching and learning skills as well as make this a better part of the teaching lives.

What is the social educational platform which we may use and are useful for students?

Based on the experiences which we have as teachers, there are three things that are easy for students, teachers as well as the guardians of the students. One is thru, the chatroom, using messenger, since almost everybody has their own messenger account powered by the Facebook app, so it is easy to use. Sometimes using this to make a group chat with the parents and students are so easy that they (latter) can almost cope with it every meeting. This is user-friendly and may be used every time, some are actually free.

Secondly is the Google. Of course, Google offers so many possibilities of learning, Once Gmail is activated, google classrooms might be enjoyable, there are quite a few things that teachers might discover using this, as well as chatting, assigning tasks, and making their own forms, and establishing rubrics. These are so handy that teachers might see the fun out of it, aside from the google meet which is actually what the teachers are using nowadays.

Likewise, the zoom is also another platform, one thing good in the zoom is the quantity of the numbers in the room and how you may see the children’s work by zooming the image.

Whatever educational platform, you choose or your organization had chosen for you as well as your agencies, one thing must always be remembered: the platform must satisfy the purpose of your tasks for the meeting.

References: