WHAT WILL 2019 BRING FOR EDUCATION?

by:
Fritzie M. Reyes
Teacher I

As time passes by, we all have witnessed many changes and many things have changed since the previous years. There has been a lot of transformation since the launch of internet and web. The way of our living and doing things has changed. Life; in short has advanced in past few years. But what lies into the future? What is next? After so many things have altered, what else remains to be perceived?

The first thing we need to analyze is that what impact education had gone through. If we link the epoch of our parents with that of ours, we can see that education has evolved and now the kind of education we are having is totally diverse and a lot has changed in these years.

The way of doing custom coursework and assignments have changed. The significance of coursework has augmented and the nature of work has improved too. This era is marked with rivalry and survival of the fittest. When it comes to education, the word “power” here determines not only the money, but skills and talent.

All these years we have seen that everything is now interconnected with internet, students get their tasks and custom coursework all on internet and college portal or slate. The manner of doing and assigning things has improved, and individuals who cannot adapt to this change cannot survive. Now the anticipation from the learners have increased too.

The weight on education has been that the importance of education has increased; many private schools and colleges are coming up and the competition to get in a good college is enormous. Students try really hard to get in a good college or they struggle hard to remain in college. Many students do part time job along with the studies and that is also the reason that many students are not able to complete their college.

References: